Zucco Set for Miss Massachusetts Pageant

Jillian Zucco, 20, of Mattapoisett, will be competing in the Miss Massachusetts Scholarship Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America Pageant, this weekend at the Hanover Theatre in Worcester. She will be competing with 20 other young bright and talented women from across the state. Jillian is the reigning Miss Fall River who was crowned in November, and since her coronation has been busy making appearances at numerous community events, where she performs and speaks to various audiences on her platform, "Choose a Cause, Make a Difference," promoting the spirit of volunteerism. Zucco's talent is a vocal performance.

The competition is a two-day event. All contestants compete on Friday evening in all categories. The show opens on Saturday night with the announcement of the Top 10 and the people's choice winner (decided by an online vote at www.missmass.org, which closes at midnight on Friday night). Only these 11 will compete at Saturday's Finals.

Keel Awards

The Wanderer is once again pleased to announce we are now soliciting nominations for our 20th annual "Wanderer Keel Awards." The yearly community service honor – which is presented to one resident from each of the three central towns in our circulation area – will be announced in our July 25 issue, and each winner will be the subject of a short feature highlighting their contributions to the local community. But The Wanderer needs your help in selecting these "unsung heroes."

The requirements are simple. Nominees must be legal residents, for at least five years, of Mattapoisett, Marion or Rochester and must have contributed in some way to the overall benefit of the community – either directly to town residents, or indirectly through efforts in promoting town activities, or working to keep the wheels of local government well oiled. The only restriction is that these persons cannot benefit from their efforts in any other way – either financially or politically (hence, sitting elected officials are not eligible).

In doing this, we hope to applaud those who are rarely recognized for their countless hours of service and focus on the many people "behind the scenes" who remain otherwise anonymous but provide crucial support to many town functions. Like the keel of a ship, which keeps the vessel from capsizing, the recipients of the Annual Wanderer Keel Award will be recognized for their stalwart efforts in keeping the community on an "even keel."

Pickles Memorial Cruise on Saturday.

The event's proceeds fund scholarships for Community Boating of New Bedford, which offers scholarships to children who want to learn how to sail. The event also donates to the Beverly Yacht Club's junior sailing program. Charles A.R. Pickles was a sailing instructor at the yacht club for many years.

"This event brings so many people together in Charles' memory," Diane Bondi-Pickles said. Charles lost his life suddenly in 2006 in a skateboarding accident.

"We host this cruise to celebrate the things that were most important to Charles, which were family, friends, good food and being on the water," Bondi-Pickles said. "We don't do a silent auction or sell T-shirts ... this is just about enjoying the company of good people in a beautiful setting."

Pickles was the son of Marion Town Clerk Ray Pickles, and many of the attendees work at the Marion Town House. Some joked about how the town would be 'up the creek' if the ship went down.

Attendees included friends, classmates, relatives and neighbors of Charles and some who never knew him.

"We saw the [event] in The Wanderer and thought it would be a great experience, and it is," said Judy Selwyh of Mattapoisett, who came with her husband, Lee.

"Believe it or not, every year we've had a beautiful evening," said Bondi-Pickles, who claimed that it was Charles who saw to the weather.

ORRJHS Marathon Finishes Strong By Shawn Badgley

Old Rochester Regional Junior High School students, staff and families finished their Second Annual Marathon last week, and while their overall time of six weeks might not seem impressive on the surface, it represents a significant achievement.

Upward of 100 participants ran the marathon in two-mile bursts during the last month and a half of school, keeping track of their progress along the way. With 25 miles under their belts, they tackled the final 1.2 miles amid a celebration of classes ending and an event t-shirt sale benefitting the school and The One Fund.

Lean said that the event gave the ORRJHS community a chance to get fit and accomplish a goal.

Students agreed.

"It was fun training with friends and teachers,"

Alissya Silva said. "It's good physical activity that we had to make time for, which I liked."

Eli Spevack closed the proceedings in style, impressively running the last 1.2 miles while juggling. His assembled classmates lined the ORR track watching in awe.

"I thought it was a great event," Spevack said.

"I had a little trouble at the beginning today, but I kept a pretty steady pace."

Town Fun at Sippican Band Blast

By Joan Hartnett-Barry

Lyn Rivet, the principal at Sippican Elementary School, is a trooper. Rivet agreed to be the first up on the dunk tank at the annual Band Blast held this Thursday, the day before school ended for the summer. The event was from 5:00 until 8:00 pm.

This was the 12th year for the Band Blast, which has enabled many students who cannot afford to purchase an instrument to learn and play musical instruments loaned to them from the school.

Tickets were sold, and students had three tries to hit the mark that would put Rivet in the tank. Dressed in a swimsuit top and shorts, Rivet sat and anticipated the drop into water that was not so warm.

Jackson St. Jon, a sixth-grade student, dunked Principal Rivet.

"I had three shots, and the first two didn't make it, but, on the third, it was a dead-center hit," St. Jon said. "I think it's wicked fun to be here, and I'm glad that I had the winning shot. Mrs. Rivet is a good sport." St. Jon plans to spend the summer painting his grandmother's house, mowing her lawn and going to the beach.

"It's always a great fundraiser for the band," said a dripping Rivet. "I'm happy to participate, because the event raises money to fund our band program, which is not included in the school budget."

According to Rivet, the Band Blast raises monies for repair and replacement of musical instruments, busses for competition transport, and other expenses related to the music provided to students at the school.

"Our goal is to support the music program," Rivet said.

Hannah Moore, head of the music department, was happy with the turnout.

"Every year, our turnout increases, and we can provide every student who wants to participate in the music program the opportunity," said Moore, who also thanked the 100 volunteers and sponsors. Moore led the band in the entertainment for the event.

In addition to the dunk tank, participants had plenty of opportunities to support the effort by participating in the myriad of activities, which included a rattlesnake toss into a cowboy hat, roping a rocking chair horse with a lasso, panning for gold in a swimming pool, tossing shoe-horses, and a creative variety of other activities for both young and old.

"It's been an awesome year and fun, and I had the best teachers," said James Arne, a student who will go on to ORRJHS.

Food was a prime event, including fish kebobs, hot dogs, burgers and other items that made for an inviting, enjoyable evening for everyone attending.

Parent Kim Berg said, " This has been a wonderful evening full of community; I love living here."

The Poop on Your Pooch's Poop

This Mattapoisett Life

By Marilou Newell

It is unfathomable that in a town so tame, so beautiful, so willing to provide doggie doo-doo bags for free there are people with little respect for their fellow residents. These scoundrels are the people that don't clean up after their dogs. I'm going to go out on a limb here and say that people willing to leave their dog's poop behind as they continue on with their walk don't even have pride in themselves. How could they?!

Do a little Internet research and guess what you find. That's right: Dog waste is bad. "Dog waste is an environmental pollutant. In 1991, it was labeled a non-point source pollutant by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), placing it in the same category as herbicides and insecticides; oil, grease and toxic chemicals; and acid drainage from abandoned mines."

Recently, as I was walking with my pup Harry, I was horrified at the volume of dog feces along the roadside heading out to Goodspeed Island. The fact that there is a station strategically located at the very entrance to the area with poop disposal bags and a trash barrel for quick and easy cleanup seems lost on many pet owners. What the heck, people? Is it too much to ask you to stop for a second and get the mess off of the ground so that the next person coming along 1) doesn't have to look at it; 2) doesn't have to step in it; and 3) doesn't have to worry about getting sick from it?

Then, as if that wasn't bad enough, as we walked along Water Street heading toward Town Hall, I was horrified at the piles left on people's lawns ... people's lawns, but wait ... also on the lawn of our very own Town Hall! Who does this?

Continuing on to Mello Wharf after a brief stop to introduce Harry to Mocha, we ventured onto the small land trust area beside the wharf. This should be a refreshing venue, a place to enjoy the sea breezes and the harborside vista, but no. The grounds are littered from end to end like a cow pasture. Who would want to memorialize their loved one with a park bench at this location when it is a checkerboard of crap? Money has been spent to give the public this priceless little jewel, only to have it desecrated by careless dog owners. I'm disgusted, disappointed and sad.

How about going for a swim or digging for clams?

"It has been estimated that a single gram of dog waste can contain 23 million fecal coliform bacteria, which are known to cause cramps, diarrhea, intestinal illness and serious kidney disorders in humans. EPA even estimates that two or three days' worth of droppings from a population of about 100 dogs would contribute enough

ANTIFREEZE POISONING

My dog was in the garage with me as I was changing the antifreeze in my car. He sniffed the old antifreeze and was going to drink it. I stopped him. Would it make him sick?

Antifreeze (Ethylene glycol) has a sweet smell that is, unfortunately, attractive to dogs. It can cause kidney failure if the dog is not treated within 4-6 hours after drinking this poison. If you see your dog or cat drinking antifreeze, take him to your veterinarian immediately.

bacteria to temporarily close a bay, and all watershed areas within 20 miles of it, to swimming and shell fishing."

And then there is Ned's Point Road. The shaded canopy, the fantastic homes, the ocean view at the end of the street: What is not to love, I ask you, with tears in my eyes? The dog mess at your feet, of course.

It makes you wonder what the owners of these dogs are really thinking. Are they thinking it's OK to let their dog soil the grounds because someone else will clean it up, or "Gee, I forgot a bag, I'll remember next time." I think that people who can walk away from their dogs' piles are simply hateful users who don't give a rat's behind for anyone but themselves, whose sense of entitlement includes spoiling public spaces or whose daytrip to our town means they are exempt from local bylaws and common decency. It is unlawful, after all, to let your dog poop and not clean it up, with up to a $200 fine.

I'm for allowing a citizen's arrest of anyone who chooses poo over cleanliness! I'm going to ask Chief Mary Lyons if I can be deputized like in the John Wayne movies. How about returning shame punishment in the form of public stocks located in the center of Shipyard Park? Yeah, that's the ticket. How about making them wear a brown t-shirt with a giant letter S on the front; think The Scarlet Letter. Or video surveillance? Would we be surprised who'd get caught casually walking away from a pile? Or how about anyone found violating public spaces with their canine's waste having to spend a week cleaning the whole town in the manner they neglected to impose upon themselves?

"According to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), pet droppings can contribute to diseases animals pass to humans, called zoonoses. When infected dog poop is deposited on your lawn, the eggs of certain roundworms and other parasites can linger in your soil for years. Anyone who comes into contact with that soil – be it through gardening, playing sports, walking barefoot or any other means – runs the risk of coming into contact with those eggs; especially your dog.

"Some of the hard-to-pronounce parasites your lawn could harbor include Cryptosporidium, Giardia, Salmonella, as well as hookworms, ringworms and tapeworms. Infections from these bugs often cause fever, muscle aches, headache, vomiting and diarrhea in humans. Children are most susceptible, since they often play in the dirt and put things in their mouths or eyes."

Listen, we all make mistakes, but it isn't a mistake to take your dog for their nightly constitutional knowing the very reason you are out there in the dark is to let your dog defecate on the ground and then leave it there to mummify in the sun and wind – or worse.

I hope and trust that if you see someone violating the doggie cleanup bylaws, you will speak up. It might not make that person do the right thing, but maybe the next time they will, and at least you would have dealt out a good dose of righteous indignation aimed at a deserving (fill in the blank)-head.

Rail Crossing Tops Safety Issues By Nick Walecka

Several Rochester town officials took the opportunity to discuss multiple topics at a Public Safety Meeting Thursday evening at the Police Station.

On hand were Town Administrator Richard LaCamera; Selectmen Naida Parker, Richard Nunes and Bradford Morse; Police Chief Paul Magee; Fire Chief Scott Weigel; Highway Surveyor Jeffrey Eldridge; Chief Dispatcher Tracy Eldridge; and Facilities Manager Mike Meunier.

Among issues discussed were:

The Railroad Crossing on County Road: Chief Magee said that they were unhappy with the lack of communication on MBTA's part regarding the crossing, which is now used by the Cape Flyer commuter train.

"A bunch of promises have been made, but they haven't kept any that I have requested," Magee said.

Magee said that he has asked for train speeds, safety assessments and information about a ride-along with safety officials so they can identify trouble spots, among other requests, but he hasn't gotten any answers yet.

Officials are also concerned that the crossing is unsafe, and they want more work done to the area to assure that it is in the future.

"They still haven't done anything besides paint some lines," Morse said.

Facilities: Work is being and has been done at several town facilities, including roof work at the Fire Station, the Council on Aging building, new carpets at the Police Station, and construction at the Town Hall.

Meunier noted specifically that the Town Hall project was going particularly well.

"They've done a real nice job on it," Meunier said. "Everybody's happy with it."

He also noted that installation would be going in soon as well, and that landscaping there will also be done shortly.

Fire Department: Chief Weigel also noted that two of the town's fire trucks had just been evaluated bumper to bumper, and though the total repairs cost around $100,000, that was a deal considering the cost of a new truck is about $500,000.

"I think they've both come out great," he said.

Weigel also spoke about the new Advanced Life Support Emergency Service that is expected to start in the fall. Currently, the town operates under Basic Life Support, and all ALS calls are dispatched to other towns with ALS Service.

"All the paperwork is in place," Weigel said. "Everything is done, and the applications are all in place. That's coming along real, real well, and I think that it's going to fall into place very easy."

He added that the town will apply for ALS status in August, and that they've already received $83,000 in equipment funded through the Southcoast Hospital Group.

Officials noted that the town has potentially lost thousands and thousands of dollars in revenue in just the past few weeks not having ALS service, with about 24 ALS calls coming in over that time period.

LaCamera noted that they believe the service should be a good source of revenue for the town.

"The $200,000 that we projected for revenue, we're definitely going to beat," he said. Storm Reimbursement: Eldridge said that he was currently in the process of filling for reimbursement from FEMA due to expenses from winter storm Nemo.

Under the new system, one call can be made that connects to all the local Emergency Departments, instead of email alerts or individual calls to each entity.

Eldridge also announced that she would be hiring a part timer to fill a position that's been open for about four years now. She noted that she anticipates some potential shortcomings at the end of the year within the Department, and that she will likely post it after July.

ORR Budget Concerns Top Agenda

Tri-Town Board of Selectmen

By Nick Walecka

Selectmen from Rochester, Marion and Mattapoisett met on June 19 at Old Rochester Regional High School, and the main issue discussed was the proposed ORR District budget for fiscal year 2014.

According to Superintendent Doug White, the district is awaiting the decision of state officials to see how much funding the district will receive before they implement their proposed budget, which passed during Town Meetings last month.

"The whole process puts us behind the 8-ball," White said. "We're concerned about the amount of money coming in. It's very important to us that we build our budget."

Currently, the district estimated funding from the state would be $2,739,000, while the Governor's budget is $3,333,082, the House budget proposal is $2,868,513, and the Senate budget proposal is $3,017,802. There could be a gap in expected and actual aid.

The schools' proposed spending budget currently is $16,854,574, and that includes the School Choice program, which was a topic of conversation among the members present. White was adamant that the program, which allows a certain number of students from other districts to attend schools within this region, is pivotal in keeping the current curriculum in place.

"We've been looking at this budget and looking at what is necessary to provide high-quality education in this region," White said. "We still have an ability to change our number if need be."

White said that depending on what the state decides on, the district might have to borrow money from the district's Excess and Deficiencies Account, which is basically a savings account for the district's schools. He said that the amount would like fall between 3 and 3.5 percent of the total in the account, which currently has about $839,000 in it.

White also mentioned the possibility of a potential six layoffs within the district should they have to make up for money they initially expected from the state but that now is not likely to come through.

"There are many districts across the state with the same problem," said White, while fielding questions from many Selectmen.

Rochester Town Administrator Richard LaCamera expressed concerns that the individual towns would struggle to come up with the extra money should Patrick's proposal change from the initial proposal.

"I'm just raising a red flag," LaCamera said. "It's going to be a serious problem next year."

White added that the Patrick administration is expected to take action by the end of June.

Road Improvements Public Hearing

By Marilou Newell

Town Administrator Michael Gagne held a public information and feedback meeting to discuss road improvements for Beacon Street, Main Street, Marion Road and Water Street. This meeting is the first in a proposed series to gather public input on the types of improvements needed on these roads, along with understanding the special needs associated with them. With roadway improvements high on the town's list of necessary investments, Highway Supervisor Barry Denham and Gagne are working toward creative ways to secure funding for parts of a larger master plan.

The town has engaged CHA professional engineers to help Mattapoisett scope out the project, collect feedback, and then begin the technical work needed to submit the project to the state for financial support. John Morgan of CHA gave a presentation, which outlined the processes necessary for such complex public roadwork complete with the types of state oversight that can be anticipated, engineering disciplines, cost estimates and timeframe. Morgan noted three basic areas that are driving the need for this work: current pavement conditions, need for pedestrian and bicycle safety and storm water management.

Those in attendance agreed that storm water and water drainage are a real problem. It became clear during the question and answer period that all areas upland of the village are impacting the lower village streets with water. Several residents pointed to aging drains and catch basins, misguided earlier attempts, the incorrect placement of storm drains, and other irregularities causing some Water Street properties to become de facto wetlands and storm water pools.

Other residents pointed to the need to be cognizant of trees that provide the area with its unique village quality, such as the singular linden tree on Water Street, the last such tree on town property. Ray Andrews, whose family has property adjacent to the tree said that his family would rather consider moving their antique stone wall than lose the tree during road improvements. Sandy Hering of the Tree Committee wanted to visit the possibility of having utilities moved to underground conduits thereby solving the issues that arise when mature trees fight for air space with utility wiring. Bonnie DaSouza wanted the project committee to be aware of historic sidewalk curbing along Water Street and hoped any work in that location wouldn't negatively impact the old stone curbs.

Other considerations will include environmental impact, parking accommodations, easements and right-of-ways. From Morgan's presentation, the project will address: road conditions, storm water management, environmental protection enhancements and safety. It must comply with: right-of-way, environmental compliance and design criteria. And it must satisfy: abutters, the community at large, the Highway Department, the Conservation Commission, Mass DOT, DEP, bicyclists and pedestrians.

The current estimate to repair and improve the 1.5 miles of streets in this project is $3.6 million. If the project is accepted by the state, it would be have oversight from SRPEDD and would take approximately two years to complete.

The Commissioners, conservation agent and building inspector all concur that longstanding issues at the site have not been easy to mitigate with Ringuette. difficulties the governing agencies have experienced, the Conservation Commission is united in addressing the newest problems post haste.

In other business, a hearing with Daniel Oliver, 40 Water Street, to construct a deck and float across protected wetlands areas was heard for changes and amendments imposed upon the project by the Army Corps of Engineers. After reviewing the modest changes from the original order of conditions, the Commission approved the changes. The Corps requested changes to the original plan to allow for the regeneration of eel grasses and other wetland vegetation in the future.

A request for determination of applicability filed by Philip Spillane, a cottage located at 9 Oliver Street, for construction of 14-by-26-foot addition on sono-tube footings was continued until July 8. The mapping the applicant used was not accurate, and newer maps situate the property in question within a velocity zone or V zone. As described at www.Mass.gov:

"The two primary types of flood zones (or special flood hazard areas) included in the Massachusetts Wetlands Protection Act regulations as Land Subject to Coastal Storm Flowage are velocity zones and A-zones. Velocity flood zones, also known as V-zones or coastal high hazard areas, have been identified by FEMA as areas 'where wave action and/or high velocity water can cause structural damage in the 100-year flood,' a flood with a 1 percent chance of occurring or being exceeded in a given year (see 100 Year Floods Don't Come on Schedule, on page 15). Because of this potential for damage, stringent regulatory requirements seek to ensure that work and construction in V-zones will minimize environmental and structural impacts, as well as economic loss. A-zones are areas inundated in a 100-year storm event that experience conditions of less severity than conditions experienced in V-zones, for example, wave heights less than 3 feet. Since FEMA flood zones may experience dangerous storm-generated wave action and surges, an accurate determination of the spatial extent of these zones is vital to understanding the level of risk for a particular property or activity."

The applicant is to return for the July 8 meeting

A notice of intent filed by James Neely of Rock Street for building a single-family dwelling with an attached garage was also continued. The location is in a coastal flood zone, however, the design is not required to contain compensatory storage that was added to the plans presented. Building Inspector Andy Bobola requested the Commission consider adding one or two additional Conservation Commission members to beef up the number of board members available to provide expertise and any quorum problems that might surface from time to time. He submitted a letter he received from Town Counsel, Brian Winner. It was noted that a Town Meeting vote would not be required to appoint new board members, but might if those new appointees were to have voting responsibilities. The sitting board will review Winner's letter and Bobola's request, deeming it was worth consideration.

The next Conservation Commission meeting is scheduled for July 8.

Shawmut Approved; CPA Slammed

Rochester Planning Board

By Shawn Badgley

After months of deliberations, Shawmut Associates LLC got the green light on Tuesday to redevelop the C&D Waste Recycling Facility at 50 Cranberry Highway, which will more than double the square footage of the current structure – itself slated for demolition – while making the site one of the highest-producing recycling centers in the region.

Representatives for the new company, Zero Waste Solutions, said it will recycle 95 percent of the materials that come through its facilities and start construction in August.

"I want to thank the people of Rochester and the members of its boards and commissions," said Michael Camara of Shawmut parent company ABC Disposal Service Inc. "This is a game changer. It will put Rochester and Massachusetts on the map and set the new norm for waste management and recyclables."

Board members Ben Bailey and Susan Teal recused themselves from the vote, which had to be a supermajority for approval. Five of the five voting members supported the applicant after plans were revised to satisfy conditions. The public hearing had closed earlier this month.

Elsewhere on the agenda, Conservation Commission Chairman Rosemary Smith – speaking additionally as a member of the Open Space Action Committee – and Conservation Agent Laurell Farinon shared with the Planning Board their vision for the Community Preservation Act, which they plan to present at Fall Town Meeting.

The CPA is a state law passed in 2000 that allows communities to establish a local fund to support affordable housing, parks and recreation (including athletic fields), open spaces and historic resources. Those municipalities that do adopt the act – currently 155 across Massachusetts – also receive a percentage of matching funds from the statewide Community Preservation Trust Fund each year.

Participating towns and cities raise CPA funds through a surcharge on property taxes. Smith said that the Rochester article would ask voters for a 1.5 percent increase (3 percent is the maximum), an average of $47 per homeowner annually, according to Smith's calculations.

The town defeated the measure in 2006, and the majority of Planning Board members expressed their own distaste for the CPA and skepticism that it would meet a better fate in 2013.

"I helped with the Open Space plan, and I'm a proud member of the Rochester Land Trust, but I'm concerned on several points," Chairman Arnold Johnson said. "It's a tax on the tax. I personally think there's going to be a backlash."

Bailey was adamant in his opposition.

"You're forcing more money out of people's pockets to fund projects they don't want," he said. "Even it is only $50, why do I want to pay another tax? This program is very overreaching."

Other members called the CPA "wasteful" and a "hurt to residents in a rough economy."

Teal was the Planning Board's lone supporter of the CPA.

"Had we gotten in in 2006, the funds would have paid for the Town Hall renovations, the Dexter fields, a lot of projects," she said. "Rochester would be way ahead. It benefits all of us. Nobody wants to pay additional taxes, but we do want additional services. It is a functioning mechanism."

Johnson and others argued that voters end up approving those projects almost without exception at Town Meeting, while CPA-funded projects would be hand-picked by a board.

By meeting's end, the tone had softened, with Johnson suggesting that the Open Space Action Committee ask residents attending the upcoming Country Fair what they think, while Board member

Garage Addition Considered

Marion Zoning Board of Appeals

A brief but effective meeting was held on Thursday by the Marion Zoning Board of Appeals.

Board members contemplated a garage addition at 305 Converse Road, proposed by Sean Sweeney, which would change the home from a one-story to a two-story structure.

A letter from abutter Annie Hayes stated that the addition "would crowd the natural area of space." After hearing from the owner, the Board agreed to meet at the site and spend more time on the request before delivering a decision.

The proposed addition would mean a larger structure arrangement, including a pergola. The footprint of the existing home would be enlarged. The homeowners asked the ZBA to approve an 8.5-foot frontage to an existing 13.8-foot frontage.

The Board agreed to take the request under consideration and schedule a site visit.

In other business, the Board agreed to continue the request of Kathleen Mahoney, 40 Dexter Road, and Matthew Stelmach, Jr., 5 Spinnaker Lane, until a later date.

Homeowners Receive Special Permits

Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals

By Marilou Newell

Three special permit requests heard; three special permit requests granted. Thus the evening was very painless for petitioners and the members of the Mattapoisett Zoning Board of Appeals.

Coming before the Board first was Natalie Richards of 4 Sagamore Road requesting a permit to build a laundry room. Previously, her home had not been able to sustain use of a washing machine. Now tied into the public sewer, she needed the additional space to allow for the installation of a washing machine and dryer. This was granted.

Carol Holland of 6 Melanie Lane came requesting a permit for an in-ground pool. This was granted after assurances from Building Inspector Andrew Bobola that the location of the pool was correct for the lot and without abutter objection despite decreased setbacks.

Lastly, Mark and Judith Mooney, 22 Crystal Spring Road, requested special permitting to build a garage/ workshop in excess of current allowances. Presently, garage structures are 864 square feet, but the Mooney plan design has a garage and workshop space that will be 1,248 square feet. The garage will be angled away from the road, minimizing the visual impact of the oversized plan. Again, the ZBA found the request acceptable.

To the Editor:

The Mattapoisett Community Tennis Association (MCTA) is a public service organization like the Lions Club, Boy Scouts and the Red Cross. We are a nonprofit corporation chartered in Massachusetts in 1999, and registered with the United States Tennis Association (USTA). We have no paid employees – we are all volunteers – and our goal is help all of the people in the community get together to play tennis. Our only income is from donations and a very small membership fee of $15 per year. What we get out this effort is having people to play tennis with since we are all tennis players.

2 Main Street,

Another public service organization, the Lions Club, raised the money to rebuild and enlarge the four tennis courts at Center School in the early 1970s. It was a huge success. Hundreds of people in the community used and enjoyed the courts. It was the first Golden Age of Tennis. Twenty-five years later, the courts were in need of repair again. But the Lions Club had changed its focus to supporting eye research only, so the MCTA was founded in 1999 for the express purpose of revitalizing the four courts at Center School. The MCTA raised $35,000 and spent $25,000 patching the surface of the four courts, making them playable again in 2001. Then we experienced the second Golden Age of Tennis. The courts were in constant use by the community, the ORR High School tennis team and the MCTA.

As part of the renovation of Center School in 2003-4, a driveway was put in to the back of Center School, cutting two of the four courts in half. The MCTA had submitted an article in Town Meeting in 2000 for the repair of the courts, but received only $4,500 from the Town. So the MCTA used $2,500 of this to have the engineering firm that helped with the design of the school renovation design three courts in 2004 to fit into the remaining area. We have been trying to find a way to fund the construction of these three courts ever since.

This year the Recreation Department was able to obtain a grant of $170,000 from the Community Preservation Act Fund, which is just what is needed to build the three new courts we had designed. But without any consideration of the design we had for three courts, they went ahead with making new plans for just two courts in that area, and tearing up what was left of the courts that had been cut in half, making them into some kind of a public park.

The mainstay of tennis today is drop-in tennis, where players come together at a given time and place to play tennis for an hour and a half. After the two courts had been cut in half in 2004 there were still two courts remaining at Center School. But the MCTA found that we could not organize drop-in tennis on just two courts. So the MCTA has been forced to play in Marion, Wareham and at Old Rochester Regional High School ever since. It is very hard to keep a drop-in tennis program going when we have to move from one place to another during the season.

The Recreation Department, Board of Selectmen, and Town Administrator were well aware of our efforts to rebuild three courts at Center School. We had made presentations to all of the town departments involved with this project for over a 10-year period. When nothing appeared to be happening in response to our efforts, we petitioned an article in Town Meeting in 2010 for $100,000 to rebuild the three courts, and were planning to make up the remaining cost of $20,000 to $30,000. But the article was amended to include only $15,000 from free cash, and failed by 6 votes because it would not have moved the project forward.

The Recreation Department is rushing to get the two-court project started before the people in town can voice their opposition to their plan of reducing the number of tennis courts in that location. The MCTA has asked for a meeting with the Town Administrator,

The MCTA provides a valuable service to the community at very low cost. We hope that the town officials will begin to work with this public service organization to provide the value that the people in this community deserve. We have been helping the people in this community for 13 years. Now we need your help in convincing the town officials to reconsider their plan for only two courts.

for the season on July 5 at 1:00 pm. This summer, the Mattapoisett Historical Society will explore "The Art of Knots" in a special summer exhibit featuring nautical knot work inspired by Clifford Ashley's The Ashley Book of Knots. The exhibit will also explore the "feminine" side of knots with beautiful examples of lace, crochet and bead work. The permanent exhibits feature artifacts from Mattapoisett's whaling days, fine furniture, antique toys and artifacts from Mattapoisett's agricultural past. The museum is open Wednesday through Saturday from 1:00 to 4:00 pm. Admission is free for members and guests. All others are $3 for adults and $1 for children 3-12.

New this summer, the Historical Society will also be offering a Walking Tour of the Waterfront every first and third Saturday of the month. The tour will leave at 2:00 pm from the Mattapoisett Historical Society and will explore our town and its role in building the whalers for Nantucket and New Bedford. Explore the waterfront streets and wharves where the action took place. The tour is free with museum admission.

Be sure to visit the museum this summer to enjoy the often overlooked intricate art of knot tying.

MOVIE REVIEW

Running Dead

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

World War Z. Starring Brad Pitt and Mirielle Enos. Directed by Marc Forster. Running time: 116 minutes. MPAA rating: PG-13.

First of all, zombies don't run, despite the "Z" in the title of World War Z. The movie's fast-moving antagonists move en masse and bite people, but they don't eat people — they're content simply to spread their pathogen via saliva. That's the second way the villains in World War Z-for-zombies aren't zombies. Third, they "turn" within ten seconds or so, and blood-borne pathogens don't work that way. The biters are sometimes called "the undead," and a scientist in the movie says that efforts to kill them with lethal viruses failed "because dead people don't get sick." But the reason that earlier, more traditional film zombies moved so slowly and clumsily was a little thing called rigor mortis. If you're bookin' it down city streets and up the stairs of tall buildings, you're not dead; you may be something else, like the rage-infected people in 28 Days Later or the depraved sadists in Garth Ennis' Crossed comic-book series, but you're not dead. To say otherwise ignores physiological realities like blood circulation.

So, whatever they are, the folks in World War Z are causing mayhem all over the world, and it's Brad Pitt to the rescue. Pitt is Gerry Lane, a former UN investigator who quit to spend more time with his wife (Mirielle Enos) and two darling little daughters. Then the epidemic hits, and the UN pulls Gerry back in. Why? Because he has experience in the field, and because he Knows How to Do All the Things. This is fortunate, because on the very first mission the UN sends Gerry on, the accompanying virologist accidentally kills himself with his own gun before he even gets off the plane. At least I think that's what happens; the director, Marc Forster, is widely loathed among James Bond buffs for his incoherent handling of the action in Quantum of Solace, and World War Z is Exhibit B in the case against Forster directing anything more strenuous than My Dinner with Andre.

World War Z is based glancingly on a novel by Max Brooks (son of Mel Brooks and Anne Bancroft), generally admired for its attention to the geopolitical fallout of a real-world zombie apocalypse. As far as I can see, the movie uses the marketable title and practically nothing else; there is no Gerry Lane in the book, at least no character who survives multiple conflagrations by the skin of his teeth, including an airplane crash. (The airplane, happily enough, goes down within presumed walking distance of the WHO Center that Gerry had wanted to reach.) The only way a proper World War Z movie could have been made was as a satirical mockumentary, for a fraction of the eventual price (two hundred million dollars). It seems as though, as soon as Brad Pitt got involved, the movie became about a hero who manages to get in and out of every pandemic hot spot and somehow figures out how to save humanity from the biters.

The big money moments involve hordes of biters — sorry, I'm still not allowing them the dignity of the "zombie" label — literally piling up to scale a massive wall in Jerusalem. But quantity doesn't necessarily equal quality. A later scene in which Gerry and some associates sneak past some biters at the WHO Center achieves more suspense with, say, two or three biters. Meanwhile, safe in a Navy ship out in the ocean, Gerry's wife sits and waits by the phone. Sometimes it rings and she answers it. Once, she takes the initiative and calls him, at the worst possible time, when Gerry and some associates are trying to sneak past some biters in South Korea. You have to be quiet around biters, you see, because "they're drawn to sound." Oh, I see. Completely unlike all those earless deaf zombies who wouldn't bother you if you were leading a brass-band parade in all those George Romero movies.

Other than almost getting Gerry killed (and mercifully sending us all home early) and handing the phone over to Gerry's UN superior at one point, the wife is useless. Mirielle Enos (who resembles Jessica Chastain enough to qualify this movie as some sort of weird Tree of Life sequel) may have been an impeccable actress in TV things like Big Love and The Killing, but you wouldn't see that from what she's allowed to express here. Pitt has more going on with Daniella Kertesz as a tough Israeli soldier, who reminded me a bit of Jenette Goldstein's hardcore Marine Vasquez in Aliens, only without the dialogue or the humor. Come to think of it, Aliens remains the gold standard of humans-vs.-monsters war movies, and World War Z reaches for that here and there, but generally falls on its face. The action is unscannable spinach, the characters are dull, and the climax is the very pinnacle of anti-climax, making World War Z seem like a terribly expensive prequel to the real movie that exists past the end credits.

Proud Ghosts of Point Connett

In memory of Jill
By Rudd Wyman

Editors note: This story has been serialized into six parts which will appear weekly in The Wanderer and at wanderer.com

Part V

I am about to go outside the tent for a smoke, and am approached by a distinguished-looking gentleman in Randy boat shoes, with dyed red hair poking from a signature baseball cap reading "Coed Naked Volleyball."

"My name is Henry Wigginton," he says, "and I am an old sailing buddy of Bob's. I have enjoyed your magazine essays: 'Shark Hunter's Guide for Dummies' and 'Sailing for the Heluvit.'"

"I would like to ask you if you truly believe everything that you write about."

This was not a direct question, and I took the offensive: "Are you truly into volleyball?" "The hat is a disguise," he says. "I teach a journalism course at Harvard, emphasis on creativity. In September, my class will focus on juvenile behavior and teenage awareness." Peering at me over a bulbous nose, Wigginton continues. "Harvard will pay you to chair a three-day workshop on creativity."

He hands me a colorful business card: "Henry Wigginton, Coed Volleyball for Mature Adults." I wonder: wrong card?

I am aware that Henry is not after my autograph, and, smelling smoke in the cockpit, I intend to ask Bob about Wigginton's shenanigans.

My war hero friend is a respected businessman in Norfolk, his Winter home, and he is the architect of a well-publicized aerial photo of Point Connett. Rain has held off, and Bob, on the seawall, is sipping a Sam Adams while enjoying the serenity of a few quiet moments away from the tent. I applaud that the blowfish remain gone, and we reminisce about a sword fishing adventure off Noman's aboard his Tashtigo. There were beach buggy trips in my World War II Jeep, Weegetum, catching striped bass. Fishing has been an important factor to relieve my friend of postwar stress.

"Is Henry Wigginton a friend of yours?" I ask Bob.

"Hanky Panky? He is a good person, Rudd, and crewed for me before the war," Bob says. "However, Hanky lies a lot, and has frequent delusions of grandeur. In June, Hanky was held hostage by aliens, escaped, and he was captured by the Mattapoisett Police when he ran a red light on Route 6."

I tell Bob that tonight Hanky is a Harvard Professor drumming up a midnight volleyball game.

My daughter, Sarah, a beautiful social butterfly, appears and asks, "Anyone up for a game of friendly volleyball?"

"You saw the hat!" I said, and we both laugh.

As Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "Life is a succession of lessons, which must be lived to be understood." I recall an unexpected, shocking experience while power-sanding a wooden boat barefoot on wet grass, and wonder how I survived to possess a loving family.

While philosophizing, my son (Steve) and Jill's son (Jim) return from Angelica, each hefting a keeper striper.

During the 1940s and 1950s, striper fishing from Dad's 28-foot Hackercraft was an exciting challenge. At this time, So-Ho may have been the fastest cabin cruiser on Buzzards Bay.

Sleeping four, my family had delightful weekend trips across the Bay, through one of three holes, to Tarpaulin Cove, Hadley Harbor and Cutty Hunk. We cruised along side of the New York Yacht Club, with America's Cup defenders, when beautiful ships sailed into Mattapoisett Harbor.

At an early age, I gained respect for the ocean, a fact that must have impressed both Andy Anderson and my Dad. Returning to Point Connett after a Boston trip, where my folks shared fog bound adventures with a crew of Amish people aboard a black schooner, we approached the East entrance to the Canal, and a routine entry. However, about halfway through suddenly waves hit So-Ho from every direction. Mom and I dawned life preservers as a waterfall of sea crashed through the windshield knocking off Dad's glasses. Pots, pans, boxes, and oranges floated on the cabin floor as we plowed into a mountain of angry sea. To avoid being bowled over, Dad kept the bow straight into the turbulent water as any variation to Port or to Starboard would have been a certain knockdown. Finally, upon entering Buzzards Bay, there was a calm conclusion to a frightful experience for a young sailor and parents.

Past Presidents of the Mattapoisett Lions Club along current members, family and friends gathered at the Music Hall in Marion to celebrate the Club's 60th anniversary and to install the slate of new officers for the coming year.

The Club motto is WE SERVE. Over the years the Club members have been instrumental in building the gazebo at Shipyard Park, the shade sheds at the town beach and Ned's Point, the tennis courts at Center School, supplying sporting equipment, building wheel chair ramps for those in need, hosting the Easter Egg Hunt, Senior turkey dinner in April, high school scholarship program, collecting toys and canned goods at Christmas time and providing eyeglasses and hearing aids to those in need. Last year our members cooked up, delivered and served over 500 hot meals in New York to those affected by hurricane Sandy. On an international level the Club is committed to help cure blindness and to provide humanitarian aid. The biggest fund raiser of the year is Harbor Days which is the third week-end of July and kicks off with the triathlon the previous Sunday. The Loin's Club wishes to thank the local businesses, town government and departments, the community members at large and our friends and family for all the support provided over the last 60 years. We look forward to continue serving the community and supporting eye research.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Count to 10 if you must, but don't lose your temper, despite that person's (you know who!) efforts to goad you into reacting. Your restraint will pay off in a big way.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This week finds you in a sociable mood, ready and eager to enjoy the company of family and friends. It's also a good time to seek out and renew old friendships.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Patience is called for as you await a decision about that project you're eager to launch. Meanwhile, try to set aside more time to share with that special person in your life.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid becoming involved in a workplace dispute early in the week by insisting both sides submit their stands to a neutral arbitrator. Things begin to cool off by Thursday.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It promises to be a busy but productive week for the Big Cat. The pace slows by Friday, allowing you to catch up on matters you put aside but that now need your attention.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A suddenly disruptive family situation is best handled with a cool, calm and collected response. Wait until things settle to let off all that pent-up emotional steam.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your practical side dominates the week as you reassess your finances to make some sensible adjustments in what you plan to spend and what you expect to save.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An unexpected meeting with a former colleague opens some interesting possibilities. But you need to press for full disclosure before making a decision.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A recent flurry of activity eases by midweek, giving you time to readjust your disrupted schedule and make new plans for a weekend getaway.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're usually the one who gives advice. But now it's time to open yourself up to counsel from friends who have your best interests at heart.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might find resistance to your call for a full inquiry into a workplace problem. But by week's end even the most rigid naysayers begin to come around.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A recurring problem surfaces once again. Maybe it's time you used your creative talents to help you find a new approach to resolving it once and for all.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are guided in what you do both by your intelligence and your emotions. An acting career would suit you quite well.

Plumb Library News

With his zany style and participatory humor, Michael Zerphy has captivated audiences across the United States and Europe. This is a show for general audiences: a family concert of clowning and fun for all. Michael creates a world that continually surprises the audience, a world in which the ordinary becomes magical and failure is turned into success. Music, juggling, a wide variety of props, and even the audience are included in this versatile show, "Zany Acts" which is appropriate for all ages.

"Michael Zerphy is a clown, but he's no Bozo. He takes his clowning around very seriously," said The Boston Globe.

This show will take place on July 15 at 3:00 pm outside at the gazebo (inside if it rains). For more information, contact the Library at 508-763-8600 or email info@plumblibrary.com. Don't miss it!

This program is sponsored by the Public Library Fund through the MA Board of Library Commissioners.

SHS 50th Anniversary

In July of 1963, a meeting was called at the home of Dr. Hugh Hencken for the purpose of forming a historical society in Marion. Seven people were present. On that evening, the Sippican Historical Society was born, established with the mission to preserve Marion's history. The purpose of the Society has remained constant over the years: to create and foster an interest in the history of Marion; to encourage historical research and writing; to collect documents and relics and to provide the proper care for them; and to establish a museum to hold the historical material pertaining to the history of Marion.

The Society has come a long way since its inception almost 50 years ago. With a membership of more than 200 individuals and families, it has become a vibrant community of people who value the mission to preserve Marion's past and promote a greater appreciation for the historic New England values which have been so important over the years. Over the past decades, SHS has sponsored numerous preservation and beautification projects throughout town, most recently the renovation of the Broomhead Bandstand in Island Wharf Park. In recent years, it has emerged with more frequent program offerings – from the popular Classic Film Fridays to entertaining and informative lectures by noted authors and local experts.

At 50 years young, the SHS has reason to celebrate! On June 29, the nonprofit will host an evening to commemorate this exciting half-century milestone. To be held at the Sippican Tennis Club, the party is open to SHS supporters past, present and future, and will include cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. The evening will feature both live and silent auctions, with items to include vacation accommodations, gourmet dinner parties, day cruises and sports packages, to name a few. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Historical Society's ongoing endowment and preservation efforts. Admission is $75 per person, and tickets can be purchased at the Sippican Historical Society (139 Front Street in Marion) or ordered by calling 508-748-1116. Inquiries and orders can also be emailed to shs50anniv@gmail.com

ORR Farmers Market

The ORR Farmers Market runs Tuesdays, 3:00 to 7:00 pm, through October 15 at Old Rochester Regional Junior High School, 135 Marion Road. Local produce, live plants, cheeses, meats, seafood, breads, soaps, artisan crafts and more will be available.

Bird Island Challenge

The Gleason Family YMCA is now accepting registrations for all types of paddle and row boats for the 11th Annual Bird Island Challenge on Sunday, August 11, 8:00 am to 1:00 pm. Choice of three courses: 3-mile Long Beach, 6-mile Great Hill and 12-mile Bird Island. The race begins and ends at Zecco Marine in downtown Wareham. Breakfast, lunch and race packet provided. Participants must preregister and the registration fee is $35 before July 15 to be guaranteed a t-shirt or after July 15 for $45 and t-shirts by availability. Proceeds to benefit the YMCA scholarship program. For more information and to receive registration material, call 508-295-9622, ext. 15.

ORCTV is pleased to announce the launch of a new storytelling series on the local channel, featuring some of the finest professional storytellers in the New England area. These stories promise to offer a treat to listeners of all ages.

Karen Chace of Freetown gets the series underway with a show taped in front of the first grade at Center School. You can see that at 5 pm Thursday and again at 10 am on Saturday on Ch. 9 Comcast or Ch. 36 Verizon.

Next up will be Simon Brooks, a native of England, whose stories focus on fairies, myth and legend.

There will be plenty of stories to come in the weeks ahead. For more information, check the listings on the web at www.orctv.org or go to the ORCTV Facebook page.

Marion Art Center News

Art in Bloom: In conjunction with two exhibitions running through July 13, members of the Marion Garden Discussion Group will interpret the select paintings using floral arrangements. The floral arrangements will be on display during the opening and will be part of the exhibitions as long as the arrangements last. Members of the Marion Garden Group have presented Art in Bloom every year for many years. Gallery goers are always delighted by the many ways the paintings are interpreted: sometimes dramatic, sometimes humorous, and always worth a second look!

Marion artist Mary Jane McCoy will be exhibiting her acrylic and oil paintings in the Cecil Clark Davis Gallery, and New York artist Arthur Kvarnstrom will be exhibiting his plein air watercolors in the Patsy Francis Gallery.

MATTREC Registration Begins

Registration has begun for summer programs offered by Mattapoisett Recreation. Starting in July, students can build their own rocket and much more in Adventures in Space, perform in Musical Theatre, and explore the outdoors in a new Nature program. Swimming lessons are available starting the second week of July at the Town Beach. Test your balance and core strength doing stand-up paddle boarding at the Town Landing; this is offered to ages 13 and over, both early morning and early evening sessions available in July and August. Adult Boot Camp moves outdoors starting next week to the Town Beach, 6:00 am on Tuesday and Thursday and Saturdays at 7:30 am.

Lots more is coming so check out all programs on the town website: www.mattapoisett.net and click on MATTREC Programs. Have a great summer!
